Execution of Instructions	Followed the instructions accurately. Submitted the activity to the correct destination before the allotted time. Saved with a correct filename.	Followed most of the instructions. One instruction was skipped but it did not significantly affect the overall output. Completed within the given time.	The output shows the basic framework. Two instructions are skipped.	The output is missing important contents. Three instructions are skipped.	The output is full of technical errors due to not following the instructions.
Syntax and Content	Excellent HTML structure from beginning to end. All HTML elements used appropriate opening and closing tags. The content is organized, relevant, and presented well.	HTML structure has most of the tags and is used correctly. Mistakes are limited to one to two instances. Most of the contents are organized.	Some tags are used correctly. Mistakes are limited to three to four instances. Some contents look disorganized.	Some tags are not used correctly. Mistakes are limited to four to six instances. The majority of the content is not organized.	Tags are used incorrectly. Mistakes are more than six instances. There are no attempts to organize content.

General Output (Text Format, Layout, and Creativity)	The output clearly and effectively demonstrates an exceptional understanding of HTML tags and CSS for styling colors, fonts, texts, images, backgrounds, tables, and buttons. The format shows distinctions between major and minor contents. Exercises creativity and the output goes beyond the minimum standard and is working.	The output demonstrates a clear understanding of the task and different parts work well with the rest of the elements. Applies creativity and the output meets the minimum standard and is working. One to two elements are missing	The output demonstrates a fair understanding of the task but some elements do not complement each other. There are some attempts to show creativity and the output meets the standard and is working. Three to four elements are missing	The output does not demonstrate an understanding of the task and most of the elements are not executed well. Lacks attempts to be creative and some parts are not working. Five to six elements are missing.	The overall output is incomplete and it does not show understanding of the task. The output is not working properly.
